CHANCELLOR GIVES SOME IMPRESSIONS OF COLLEGE

Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds, who visited the college Feb. 28, praised the campus and the people she met while here.

"You have a dramatically attractive campus. It has developed conservatively and with basically sound principles. You recognize quite well the potential in the immense geographic region that lies outside the immediate San Bernardino environs, and I am pleased you are taking steps to seize these possibilities for enrollment development," she said in a letter to President Anthony H. Evans.

"I was pleased with the overall quality of faculty, administrators and students with whom I met, and particularly with your efforts to build support in the community."

INFRARED ASTRONOMY SATELLITE TOPIC OF EXPERT'S LECTURE

Lynn Fischer, one of the scientists instrumental in the development and operation of the new Infrared Astronomy Satellite, will give a free lecture and slide presentation about the spacecraft at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, March 19 in PS 10. The event is sponsored by the San Bernardino Valley Amateur Astronomers.

Ms. Fischer, infrared data analyst for the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, has been involved in various aspects of analysis of the IRAS telescopic function and development of ways to interpret and use its data. Since early February, the satellite has been sending to earth images of sources--some never seen before--that emit infrared radiation, the heat given off by everything in the universe.

Dean James Crum (Natural Sciences), president of the local Amateur Astronomers, said the college will host future meetings of the group. William Goff, an amateur astronomer from San Bernardino, will speak on "Techniques of Observing Variable Stars" April 16.

ALUMNI EDUCATION CHAPTER TO HONOR DR. AND MRS. EVANS

The Education Chapter of the Alumni Assn. will honor President and Mrs. Anthony H. Evans during a reception from 4:30 to 6 p.m., Thursday, March 17 in the Lower Commons. Dr. Evans plans to address the group at 5 p.m. about the future of the college.

Members of the campus community and friends of the college are invited. Special invitation has been extended to the 2,500 individuals who have received credentials from the college and more than 100 directors of personnel and other school district administrators representing San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

COLLEGE OFFERS CERTIFICATE IN SCHOOL BUSINESS MANAGEMENT

The college has a new certificate program in school business management designed for both certificated and classified employees at school districts. Meetings about the program are scheduled at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday and 9:30 a.m., Saturday, March 19 in PL 500 North.

To earn the certificate, a student must complete 25 units. Courses are offered in contemporary school business management, school finance and budgeting, school accounts and related functions, and school business management and service functions. An elective may be chosen from public relations in the public sector, psychology and education of exceptional children and introduction to counseling.

More information about the program is available from Dr. Thomas Woods (Education), the coordinator, Ext. 7581 or Ext. 7570.

COMMUNITY COLLEGE COUNSELORS TO VISIT DURING ME FESTIVAL

In conjunction with the Microtechnology for Everybody (ME) Festival, the college will host a luncheon for counselors from the 10 community colleges in the area Friday, April 22, the first day of the three-day event.

The counselors also will attend a seminar on "Stress and the Computer User" and a demonstration of tension-relieving exercises for computer users, as well as visit the microtechnology exhibit in the Gymnasium. The School of Administration, Relations with Schools and Computer Center are sponsoring this visit.

DR. JILL BUROKER WINS NEH GRANT TO STUDY KANT

Dr. Jill Buroker (Philosophy) has been awarded a $2,700 grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities to conduct research this summer on philosopher Emmanuel Kant. Titled "Kant, Ideas, and End of Humanism," her project will culminate in a book on Kant's theory of judgment in the context of 17th and 18th century philosophy.

An expert on Kant, Dr. Buroker previously wrote a book titled Space and Incongruence: The Origin of Kant's Idealism. This book on Kant's theory of space was published in 1981 by D. Reidel Co.

Dr. Buroker holds Ph.D. and M.A. degrees in philosophy from the University of Chicago and a B.A. in philosophy from DePauw University in Indiana.

PLENTY OF ACTIVITIES ON CAMPUS THIS WEEKEND

This weekend will be an active one for the college, with an art exhibit, the A.S. calendar pageant, two concerts, a movie and theatre performances.

The Art Gallery will be open from 9 a.m. to noon, 1 to 4:00 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. today, and from 1 to 4 p.m. tomorrow and Sunday for the senior show by Bertie Lewis, Danny Redfern and Rick Schneblin. Admission is free.

During the pageant tonight, 24 male students and a staff member will vie for the honor of adorning a calendar for the next school year. Twelve models will be chosen by the audience during this event, which begins at 9 p.m. in the Multipurpose Room of the Student Union. Admission is $2 students, $3 general.

The Imagination Players will perform children's stories at 1:30 and 7:15 p.m. today in the Theatre as part of the Family Performance Series. The event is expected to sell out, so interested persons should call JoAnn Hartzog, Ext. 7662, in advance to be sure tickets are still available. The cost is $2 adults, $1 children age 12 and under.

Tomorrow night, the Chamber Orchestra will perform at 8:15 p.m. in the Recital Hall. Baritone Paul Chatfield will be featured during "Il Maestro di Cappella," a burlesque intermezzo by Cimarosa. Admission is $3 general, $1.50 students.

The free foreign film series will begin with a showing of "Black and White in Color" at 7:30 p.m., tomorrow in PS 10. Dialog is in French with English subtitles.

Also tomorrow night, the CSCSB floor hockey team will play USC at 7 in the Gymnasium. Admission is free.

Drama teams from area high schools will give 20-minute performances from 9 a.m. to about 4 p.m. in the Theatre tomorrow during the High School Theatre Workshop. The public is invited at no charge.

Concluding the weekend activities, the Wind Ensemble will perform at 8:15 p.m., Sunday in the Recital Hall. Solo performances will be by trombonist Christi Belicki and pianist Dana Jordan. Admission is $3 general, $1.50 students.
